Mock Trial At Orange Preparatory Academy

Submitted by Ms. Tara Phipps, Technology Coordinator, Orange Preparatory Academy

This year, Orange Preparatory Academy was again selected for participation in the annual Essex Vicinage Law Day Mock Trial Program. The 8th grade students were given a fact pattern and four statements of witnesses in advance of the trial. The students then used the statements and prepared opening statements, direct and cross examination of each of the witnesses, and closing statements. The questions were designed to be legally relevant and evidence from the statements was used to support the respective sides of the parties.

State alleged that Archer was criminally responsible for Milan's death and charged him with involuntary manslaughter and a violation of the state's anti-hazing laws.

This year's case was State v. Archer and involved a college freshman, Milan Jackson, who fell to her death while trying to join a co-ed college fraternity. The defendant, Chris Archer, was the president of the fraternity, Phi Gamma, and it was he who whispered something to Milan that caused her to climb a 30-foot clock tower to hang the fraternity flag. She fell from the ledge and died as a result of her injuries. Milan, and others who participated in this final pledge event had engaged in under-age drinking on the night in question and it was determined that Milan was legally intoxicated when she fell to her death. The

On Friday, May 6, the jury trial was held at Orange Prep. The Honorable Ned Rosenberg, a Superior Court judge from Essex County, presided over the trial. Representing the State was 8th grade student Ashley Laveriano, who was assisted at the trial by Mrs. Jenny Barry, an attorney in the State of New Jersey. Yse Wrantz Lubin and Miphilove Milord were the students who represented the defendant. Mr. Richard L. Brand, an assistant prosecutor in Essex County, assisted them at the trial. Both attorneys met the students on the day of the trial and reviewed the work the students prepared for trial. Joseph Barbu played the role of Chris Archer and the other witnesses were Tashana Noel (Pat Smith), Slomit Ortega (Skylar Johnson), and Katiana Issac (Dean Jesse Thomas). After the testimony concluded, the jury deliberated and reached a unanimous verdict of guilty on both counts.

Each year, the Superior Court of New Jersey - Essex Vicinage organizes its annual Law Day Celebration. This annual celebration, started in 1997, usually takes place during the first week in May. The Law Day program was developed and implemented by the Essex Law Day Committee composed of judges and staff, as well as representatives from the New Jersey State Bar Foundation and the Essex County Bar Association.

The Prep Presents an Evening of Poetry and Prose

On April 28, the English Language Arts (ELA) “Dream Team” sponsored The Prep Presents an Evening of Poetry and Prose at Orange Preparatory Academy. Ms. Grace Anderson, Grade 9 ELA teacher, hosted the event attended by 250 guests. The evening included a catered dinner, a gallery of writing samples highlighting a variety of genres, completed by students, and culminated with an “Open Mic” session with students reading a range of poetry, prose and original compositions. They expressed an array of emotions (love, fear, determination), their individual personalities (funny, political, academic) and their preferences (poetry, Japanese authors, speech, essay).

Staff members, including Co-Principal, Ms. Aretha Malloy, Media Specialist, Ms. Julie Price, staff member, Ms. Charlene Gilliam and ELA teacher, Ms. Jewell Pollard, recited Maya Angelou's Phenomenal Woman, in a tribute to the renowned author.

The cafeteria, where the forum was held, was packed with 250 students and their families along with district administration including Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Ronald C. Lee, Deputy Superintendent, Dr. Paula Howard, Directors, Dr. Terri Russo and Ms. Kathryn Carter, along with supervisors and other staff members. Also supporting the event were city officials including the Honorable Mayor Dwayne D. Warren, Esq.

The event gave students an opportunity to demonstrate their writing skills and progress and was a forum for self-expression and public speaking. It was a wonderful display of student and staff accomplishment in English Language Arts. Co-Principal Malloy stated, "This event celebrated the literary achievement of our scholars."

Orange High School and Orange Preparatory Students Visit Microsoft's Flagship Store

Submitted by Mr. Glenn M. Gamble, Business/Technology Teacher, Orange Preparatory Academy

On a brisk Saturday morning, three Orange students were treated to a VIP experience at Microsoft's Flagship store on Fifth Avenue that opened in October 2015. Leodson Jean Baptiste and Nathan Rene Shockley of Orange Preparatory Academy and Angelo Cullampe Gomez of Orange High School (OHS) (pictured left) had a three-hour back stage and front row experience of the premier facility on May 7. These students arrived at the OHS early Saturday morning to make the 8:00 a.m. departure and journey into the center of Manhattan for an up close and personal experience of the three level store. The first level featured all the devices that Microsoft manufactures and supports, the second level, which was designed to have the feeling of a floating floor, was filled with game applications and walls of digital media, the third level housed the Dell components and a HoloLens demonstration. The experience at Microsoft was a prize awarded to these three fine young men for their stellar representation of the Orange School District at a Microsoft event last March. Mr. Max Nixon of OHS and Mr. Glenn Gamble of Orange Prep, who escorted the students, commended them for their efforts and hope to see them enter the world of computer science as their choice career.

Rockefeller Center Tour

Submitted by Mr. Max Nixon, SmartLab Facilitator, Orange High School

Accompanying the three winners of the Microsoft tour were seven students from Mr. Nixon's Introduction to Engineering class and a top-performing student from Mr. Gamble's class. They visited the Microsoft store, reviewing Microsoft technologies, before they began the exploration of select New York City sites. The students had the chance to see:

- St. Patrick's Cathedral
- Van Gogh's Ear Sculpture displayed in the Channel Gardens of Rockefeller Center
- Saks Fifth Avenue
- Statue of Atlas
- Madison and Fifth Avenue corridors
- The Shops at Rockefeller Center
- Nintendo World Flagship Store
- TODAY Show & NBC Experience Stores

The group enjoyed pizza at Harry's Italian Pizza Parlor, located in the Concourse of Rockefeller Center, before heading back to the Microsoft Flagship Store. Although the group did not make it to the "Top of the Rock," this NYC trip is a must do for anyone who visits Manhattan. It affirms that the sky is the limit for what our students can and do achieve.

Voices in Harmony Wins in Williamsburg, VA

Submitted by Ms. Donna Sinisgalli, Supervisor of Visual and Performing Arts/Mr. David Milnes, Choral Director, Orange High School

The Voices in Harmony (ViH) singing ensemble traveled to Williamsburg, VA, April 27 - 30, along with the women's choir, called Legato Ladies, to compete in the prestigious International Heritage World Stride Music Festival. Along with high scores, the two groups swept the "Maestro Award" given to outstanding soloists. The solo awards went to senior, Clinton Obi, and junior, Abigail Charles, for their duet in the New York Voices arrangement of "For All We Know." The piano accompaniment for that song was played by sophomore, Ryan Hinton, who was awarded Orange's first ever student accompaniment award. Danae Green was also awarded a solo award for her performance in the Legato Ladies song "When I Fall in Love".

In addition to the soloist awards, Orange received another prestigious recognition, the "Ovation Award," which is given to a student, nominated by their director, who exemplifies the best of the group. Adjudicators then vote on the recipient. This award is the "MVP" of the entire competition and open to a band, strings or choral students. Orange is proud to announce that the award was given to Orange High School senior, Marlana Browne!

After their performances, the groups enjoyed clinics provided by college music professors from Temple University, Randolph-Macon College, and the Minister of Music from Derbyshire Baptist Church in Richmond Virginia.

The ceremony and festivities were held at Bush Gardens, and the students also had the opportunity to visit Colonial Williamsburg.

ViH would like to thank everyone who made donations and helped to make this trip a success, including music instructors, Mr. Terrence Thornhill and Mr. Thaddeus Hammond, who accompanied the group as chaperones.

The Orange Public School District Congratulates ViH, Legato Ladies and their director, Mr. Milnes, for their achievement.

Community Health Fair

The annual Orange Public School District's Community Health Fair took place on May 7, at Lincoln Avenue School. The event, organized by Ms. Saundra Gray, Supervisor of Health and Physical Education, was well attended, in spite of the threatening weather.

In the school's gymnasium, visitors were exposed to a variety of community resources, received free health screenings (blood pressure, glucose testing) from Clara Mass Medical Center/Barnabas Health and collected a wealth of information about health and safety from such providers as St. Michael's Medical Center and University Hospital.

There were also many organizations present, such as the Boy Scouts (Pack 49, St. Matthew A.M.E. Church), the Orange Police Department, the Orange School District's Early Childhood Department, author of Summertime with Lizzie B. Hayes, KP Carter, Orange Prep's female mentoring group Berry's Butterflies, the Heywood Avenue School PTA (handing out toothpaste, as a community service activity), and vendors selling an assortment of gift items for Mother's Day.
