1: Professional Learning Goals

No.	Goal	Identified Group	Rationale/Sources of Evidence
1	By June 2024, 80% of students will increase two COR levels from baseline data in 5 out of the 7 ELA areas: Speaking, Listening & Comprehension, Phonological Awareness, Alphabetic Knowledge, Reading, Book Enjoyments & Knowledge, and Writing.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Preschool Teachers</li> <li>Preschool Paraprofessionals</li> <li>Early Childhood Support Staff</li> </ul>	Language, literacy, and communication are inherently and intricately intertwined. Oral language is the foundation for understanding and mastering printed language. Children comprehend the words and ideas that others communicate to them. They gesture and speak to share their ideas with others. As they discover how the sounds of language work, and see speech sounds represented in print, children are ready and eager to learn how to read and write. The preschool years create the foundation upon which reading and writing skills are built. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>COR anecdotes and COR reports</li> <li>Letter &amp; Number ID (Student Growth Log)</li> <li>Block Area Books</li> <li>Review of Lesson Plans</li> <li>Dramatic Play Areas/Activities</li> </ul>
2	By June 2024, 75% of all preschool students will increase one COR level in 3 out of the 4 SEL areas: 1 Building relationships with other children; 2 Emotions; 3 Conflict Resolution; 4 Community	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Preschool Teachers</li> <li>Preschool Paraprofessionals</li> <li>Early Childhood Support Staff</li> </ul>	Per the National Association of Education for Young Children, “ Children’s social and emotional health affects their overall development and learning. Research indicates that children who are mentally healthy tend to be happier, show greater motivation to learn, have a more positive attitude toward school, more eagerly participate in class activities, and demonstrate higher academic performance than less mentally healthy peers (Hyson 2004; Kostelnik et al. 2015). Children who exhibit social and emotional difficulties tend to have trouble following directions and participating in learning activities. Compared with healthier peers, they may be more likely to suffer rejection by classmates, have low self-esteem, do poorly in school,

			and be suspended (Hyson 2004; Kostelnik et al. 2015). Thus, children’s social and emotional health is just as important as their physical health, and affects their capacity to develop and potential to lead a fulfilling life. Teachers can promote children’s social and emotional health in many ways, for example, by organizing a material-rich environment to stimulate social interactions among children. This article focuses on two of the most important practices: building trusting relationships and conducting intentional teaching.” NAEYC (2023) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● COR anecdotes and COR reports</li> <li>● Student Growth Log</li> <li>● Self-Portraits</li> <li>● Cozy Corners</li> <li>● Dramatic Play Activities</li> </ul>
3	By June 2024, school-wide chronic absenteeism will decline from 41% to 31% , resulting in a 10% decrease.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Preschool Teachers</li> <li>● Preschool Paraprofessionals</li> <li>● School Social Worker(s)</li> <li>● Community Parent Involvement Specialist</li> <li>● Other relevant staff members</li> </ul>	Chronic absenteeism has a profound impact on student achievement. Children who do not come to school on a regular basis may not reap the benefits from a developmentally appropriate curriculum and may not gain critical foundational skills. In SY 2022-2023, 41% (47 out of 115 students) of preschool children were chronically absent at Orange Early Childhood Center.
