

AFAM 3291: MLK Day Symposium

One day, one credit course
Monday, January 20, 2020
8:30am-4:00pm, Bethany Hall

In honor of one of America's most revered advocates for social change, the College of Arts and Sciences will offer a special one-credit workshop to be held on Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day (federal holiday), Monday, January 20. The day-long event will take place in Bethany Hall beginning at 8:30 a.m. It is open to all Seton Hall undergraduates and alumni. For current undergraduates, the course falls under flat tuition and is no additional cost regardless of your credit load. CEU/Professional Development credits available. Discounts for Seton Hall alums.

Course content includes Dr. King's contributions towards and analysis of oppression, liberation and peace. Additional content on institutional racism, micro aggression, rhetoric, privilege and law, etc. Special features focus on teacher content development for NJ Amistad Commission regulations and MLK on diversity issues in the business corporation work place.

Undergraduates register during your spring registration period.
